Racism Awareness

by Iannis Ireland
Training & Development Officer

WILTON BRADLEY

Racism Awareness

Training Module

Duration:	1 hr Briefing	Delivery Methods:	Microsoft Teams / Face-to-face

Who Is This Training For?

- Anyone wishing to improve their knowledge and understanding of racism, its origins, impact, and how to ensure their workplace is free from it
- Anyone who has received negative feedback on their attitudes to race in the workplace, and who wishes to improve moving forward
- Anyone wishing to promote a more diverse approach in their own business

Course Description

We live in a wonderfully diverse and colourful world, where we constantly strive to provide the very best opportunities for all, irrespective of any factors which might be construed as barriers to success.

Sadly, this ideal is not modelled everywhere, and in some cases, there are workforce members who need a reminder of it, and their role in ensuring it happens.

This course is designed to provide any attendees with an interesting look at not only what racism actually is, but also to challenge any preconceived ideas they might have.

The aims are:

- To define the terms
- To understand more about how negative attitudes have developed over time
- To be more aware of the laws preventing it
- To understand better our role in preventing workplace and wider racism

Benefits Of Attending

- Improved knowledge and understanding, which can be modelled and cascaded to others
- Reduced absenteeism in work
- Better productivity, due to better collaboration
- Time savings, due to a reduction in reported incidents involving racism
- Better understanding of key terminology
- Improved capacity to plan further developments